Natalie Alameddine concentrates her practice on labor and employment law, where she defends employers in single-plaintiff and class action employment matters. Natalie represents and counsels employers in a wide range of labor and employment matters, including:

- Federal and California wage and hour issues
- Class actions and PAGA representative actions
- Discrimination and harassment
- Retaliation
- Wrongful termination
- Misclassification

Natalie previously served as a law clerk for the National Labor Relations Board, a clinic counselor and legal advocate for the Employment Law Center in San Francisco, and a judicial extern to the Honorable Bobbi Tillmon of the Los Angeles Superior Court of California.

During law school, Natalie was a senior articles editor of the Hastings Business Law Journal, served as the 3L class president for the Associated Students of UC Hastings, and volunteered as a mediator for the San Francisco Superior Court through a mediation clinic.

Outside The Firm

Natalie enjoys traveling, skiing, learning to cook, and confusing people with her identical twin sister.
