Adam Laver is a partner in the firm's real estate practice where he advises clients on matters related to real estate development, zoning and land use, and real property tax minimization. He works regularly with elected officials throughout the Philadelphia area and with key municipal agencies, including the Philadelphia Zoning Board of Adjustment, the Philadelphia Historical Commission, the Philadelphia Department of Licenses and Inspections, the Philadelphia City Planning Commission, and the Philadelphia Streets Department.

He works with these agencies to obtain zoning, use, building, and related permits for both regional and national developers, owners, and users of real estate.

Adam also represents taxpayers in connection with real estate tax exemption, abatement, and market-value assessment appeals before the Board of Revision of Taxes and other boards of assessment appeals.

Chambers USA has recognized Adam in the field of real estate, zoning, and land use, noting that he has been praised by clients and peers as “a wonderful lawyer,” “very client-focused and a class act,” and “someone who is always fully prepared ... [who] understands the law and respects the processes.”

Select Engagements

Adam represents real estate owners, developers, and stakeholders on a broad range of local and national transactions. His representative experience includes the following:

- A national real estate investment firm, in extensive, high-profile, mixed-use redevelopments throughout Philadelphia.

- A well-known restaurant chain, in obtaining zoning and related approvals for its restaurants in Philadelphia's Center City District.
- A hotel developer, in securing approvals and financing for new Philadelphia-area hotels.
- A regional real estate developer, as land use counsel in connection with its multi-family development projects throughout the Philadelphia area.
- A national luxury home builder, in securing significant tax savings in connection with real estate tax abatements and assessment appeals.
- A hotel chain, as liquor license counsel in securing licensure from the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board.
