Bradley E. Wolf focuses his commercial law and transactional practice on a wide range of secured and unsecured debt financing types, including single lender and syndicated credits, acquisition financing, asset-based lending, leveraged lending, cross-border lending, recapitalizations, working capital loans, subordinated debt, trade finance, transactions involving real estate and first lien/second lien structures, and restructurings and workouts of all such debt financing types.

Brad has significant experience in many industries and types of businesses, including manufacturing, food and other retail products, casinos and gaming, and agricultural businesses. His representative clients include an array of financial institutions, private equity sponsors, lenders, and corporate borrowers.

Prior to joining Blank Rome, Brad served as both a shareholder and partner at leading Am Law 100 firms in their finance and restructuring practices. He also served as in-house counsel at various American multinational financial services companies.

Outside The Firm
