TEAM LEAD, BIOMETRIC PRIVACY

Jeffrey Rosenthal has extensive experience in high-stakes corporate and commercial litigation, having defended companies in multiple industries against claims involving:

- Class actions
- Biometric Information Privacy Act (“BIPA”)
- Telephone Consumer Protection Act (“TCPA”) / Junk Fax Prevention Act
- Florida Telephone Solicitation Act
- Consumer fraud and privacy
- Driver Privacy Protection Act (“DPPA”)
- Labeling and false advertising
- Contracts
- Business torts
- Software and technology
- Intellectual property (trade secret / trademark / copyright)
- Civil Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations (“RICO”) Act
- Securities / shareholder actions
- Financial industry arbitration
- Professional liability
- Alien Tort Statute

Jeffrey regularly writes the Cyberlaw column for The Legal Intelligencer, wherein he discusses the intersecting areas of law and computing with an emphasis on the impact of new technologies, online privacy, software, intellectual property, and social networking sites on corporations, businesses, and individuals. He also serves as an editor for Blank Rome's Biometric Privacy Insider blog, which analyzes and explores emerging issues in the rapidly developing area of biometric privacy.

Jeffrey is a frequent lecturer on issues relating to attorney ethics. His recent speaking engagements include serving as a panelist discussing ethical issues in attorney use of social media for a national webcast, presenting on the proliferation of biometrics (fingerprint/face/voice scans) and the resultant impact on privacy and class action litigation, and presenting on practical class action avoidance strategies. He has also lectured on the topic of alternative dispute resolution at Villanova University School of Law, and on e-discovery and social media at Drexel University Thomas R. Kline School of Law. He also serves as a court-appointed Arbitrator as part of the Philadelphia County Court of Common Pleas' Compulsory Arbitration Program.

In 2014, Jeffrey was selected by a panel of judges as one of The Legal Intelligencer's "Lawyers on the Fast Track," a recognition given to only 36 lawyers throughout Pennsylvania under the age of 40 who have influenced the legal industry through their development of the law, commitment to the community, and service to the bar.

While in law school, Jeffrey served as executive editor of the Syracuse Law Review. He also served as a law clerk to the Honorable John P. Dean, Principal Administrative Law Judge for the Office of Administrative Hearings in Washington, D.C.

Jeffrey completed his undergraduate studies at Pennsylvania State University where he earned a B.S. in Business Management, Smeal College of Business, and a B.S. in Psychology.

Professional Activities

Jeffrey handles a number of pro bono cases each year on behalf of indigent clients. He was recognized by Blank Rome with its Pro Bono Hero award in 2011 and serves as a member of the firm's Philadelphia Pro Bono Coordinating Committee. He was also named to the First Judicial District of Pennsylvania's Pro Bono Roll of Honor from 2008 to 2012. Jeffrey has also been accredited for the preparation, presentation, and prosecution of claims for veterans' benefits before the Department of Veterans Affairs.

In addition, Jeffrey regularly volunteers with the United Way of Southeastern Pennsylvania, and the Golden Slipper Club & Charities, a group that promotes a spirit of fraternalism and good fellowship through numerous charitable initiatives.

Jeffrey was elected to serve a three-year term on the Board of Governors for the Philadelphia Bar Association. He previously served as Financial Secretary to the Executive Committee of the Young Lawyers Division of the Philadelphia Bar Association ("YLD"). In that role, he chaired the YLD's annual fundraiser, which raised over $19,000 for the Philadelphia Bar Foundation. He also organized a city-wide legal clinic, which provided living will and other end-of-life documentation to members of the community.

In 2015, Jeffrey was appointed to the Audit and Finance Committee of Philadelphia Legal Assistance (“PLA”) and Community Legal Services (“CLS”), the two largest organizations in Philadelphia that provide free civil legal services to low-income individuals. In 2016, he was elected to the Board of Directors of CLS.

In Spring 2011, Jeffrey was selected by the Jewish Federation of Greater Philadelphia to participate in its pilot Israel 360 program, which included a trip to Israel that incorporated community service and the political, religious, and societal aspects of Israeli culture. Jeffrey has also completed the Jewish Federation’s Leadership Development Program.

Jeffrey also serves on the firm’s Philadelphia Attorney Recruiting and Retention Committee.
