Robert Davidson concentrates his practice on a variety of corporate, financing, and related matters across a broad spectrum of industries.

Robert has notable experience guiding companies through all stages of the corporate life cycle, from formation to sale or restructuring. His extensive corporate and financing experience includes drafting, negotiating, and advising on a wide variety of purchase agreements and financing agreements, complex cross-border transactions, sophisticated for-profit/non-profit joint venture arrangements, dividend recapitalization, leveraged buyouts, minority investments, and sales to both strategic and financial acquirers.

Robert also has experience counseling companies on day-to-day corporate matters, including SEC compliance, compliance with bylaws and other organizational documents, and interpretation of purchasing, financing, and other commercial agreements.

Robert previously worked at a boutique law firm located in Dallas, as well as a large international law firm before joining Blank Rome.

Outside The Firm

Robert enjoys playing soccer/staying active and never says no to watching sports.
